

Shayra Antia

COFOUNDER & COO, PRIVACYPAL · SOUTH FLORIDA

She builds artificial intelligence for a living and she is raising children who are growing up inside it. Both things are true at once, and that is the point of view: technology held to the standard of a life, not the other way round.

There is room for the company, the family, the unfinished idea, and the next chapter.

THE WOMAN

A founder, a first-generation Colombian-American, a mother, and a mentor to other women building companies. She refuses to file those under separate accounts.

THE EYE

A complete visual system of her own: luxury editorial, warm portraiture, restraint. The look book and brand kit are published and consistent.

THE STANDING

She does not borrow authority on AI. She ships the product, and she will say the difficult thing about her own industry on the record.

HER OWN WORDS

"I host rooms, not panels."

How she works with a brand

01 / EDITORIAL

She writes it

A commissioned piece or a column, in her own voice, on a subject she can actually teach.

03 / THE ROOM

She convenes it

An evening for the women a brand wants in the room, hosted and programmed rather than sponsored.

SUBJECTS SHE CARRIES

What a woman who builds AI tells her own children about it

Building a company with your husband, and dividing the decisions

Ambition with more than one dimension

02 / CAMPAIGN

She appears in it

Portraiture and motion inside her own visual system, or inside yours, agreed in advance.

04 / COUNSEL

She advises on it

The trust question, answered properly. What your product should tell a customer about where their data goes.
